Early Childhood Equity Movement

2021 and 2022, we are working on a comprehensive, multi-sectoral, and culturally relevant initiative known as the Early Childhood Equity Movement (ECEM) to address the needs and challenges faced by young children in early childhood development. ECEM is a movement that brings together various stakeholders, including parents, educators, policymakers, and researchers to work towards creating a more equitable and just world for young children.

In this section, we will explore the various dimensions of early childhood equity, including the importance of early childhood development, the role of policymakers and educators, and the need for collaboration across sectors. We will also discuss the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead, and the steps that can be taken to ensure that all children have the opportunity to grow and thrive.

For more information, please visit our website at endowmentforhealth.org/early-childhood-equity-movement.